

VESSEL GALLERY

LONDON

Studio Strange

Balance

Circa: 2012

2012

Denmark

Glass

In their own words;

“Deciding to re-think our approach to glass, to our products, to the process of developing new designs and to work and independence in general. We made a choice to be more conscious about the mechanisms, stress and deadlines that can make us forget the joy of everyday life. Chosing to stay focused on the positive, funny, fine and beautiful things and details, that make our days more colorful, festive and happy. We believe that these reflections and the awareness are visible in the glass we make, keeping a playful and humorous approach and to explore and move the limits of the material and ourselves.”

43-65cm high

Literature:

Unique

Artist description:

Studio Strange are a Danish glass blowing couple, Theis Strange and Pernille Knudsen. The pair met whilst working at a glass studio in Norway and took on a studio in Brittany, France for a time before returning to their motherland, Denmark. From their studio at the prestigious Ebeltoft Glass Museum they give shape to their weird and wonderful vision. In their own words; “Deciding to re-think our approach to glass, to our products, to the process of developing new designs and to work and independence in general. We made a choice to be more conscious about the mechanisms, stress and deadlines that can make us forget the joy of everyday life. Chosing to stay focused on the positive, funny, fine and beautiful things and details, that make our days more colorful, festive and happy. We believe that these reflections and the awareness are visible in the glass we make, keeping a playful and humorous approach and to explore and move the limits of the material and ourselves.”